AB SPECIALTY SILICONES purchases additional production and storage facility

Waukegan, Illinois, January 15, 2019

AB Specialty Silicones has purchased another location further expanding both storage and production capabilities. The addition comes on the heels of a year full of growth and improvements in 2018: the company expanded storage and production, added equipment enhancing capabilities, unveiled a new top-of-the-line laboratory, launched their new website, and introduced many new and innovative products to the marketplace.

The new location provides AB Specialty Silicones with an additional 40,000 square feet of production, warehouse, and office space. The continuous expansion of the Waukegan, Illinois corporate campus now comprises of four buildings and over 240,000 square feet that includes their headquarters, manufacturing, research & development and warehouse locations.
